JWed Announces Free Trip to Israel Contest in Honor of its 3300th Match

NEW YORK—JWed will celebrate its 3300th marriage by offering one lucky couple two free tickets to Israel.

The online Jewish dating website will host a contest from July 22, 2019–August 16, 2019 asking engaged or married couples who met through JWed (or when the site was formerly Frumster) to submit their stories and pictures for a chance to win two free tickets to Israel.

“We are excited to bring the JWed family together to celebrate this milestone,” said CEO Ben Rabizadeh. “At a time of exciting growth for our company, we think it is appropriate to celebrate those who found their chosen one through our platform, which has been a pioneer in online dating for more than a decade.”

JWed is an online dating service for authentically Jewish singles seeking meaningful, committed relationships, which work to foster deep connections that lead to marriages.

The site uses proprietary two-way filters to provide custom profiles that enable Jewish singles to find matches who share their core values and religious affiliation. A firewall screens profiles so that each member sees only relevant suggestions. Members can then choose whom to contact and do so directly through the website.

JWed started in 2001 as Frumster, an Orthodox dating website, but was renamed in 2012 when it expanded to the broader Jewish community.

The contest is open to any engaged or married couple that met through JWed, at any time. See here for full details. JWed staff will select the best stories to be entered in a raffle for two round-trip, economy class plane tickets to Israel of up to $2000 value.
